SCORES KILLED BY STORM IN EAST: TORNADO HITS BUCKEYE LAKE

Three Perish At Ohio Resort

COLUMBUS, O., June 12.—The death list in the storm at Buckeye Lake Sunday evening remained at three, the search since daylight failing to reveal any more fatalities.

Early estimates of property loss, which placed the damage at $100,000, were said this morning to be too low. Incomplete lists of cottages damaged or destroyed already runs the probable loss to more than $125,000.

Efforts of searchers is confined almost exclusively to the bath house, wrecked by a falling tree. Divers have been employed all morning searching the waters of the bathing beach for possible victims.

Efforts are being made to raise the wrecked bath house by means of block and tackle. Meanwhile, searching parties are exploring the interior.

Lack of inquiries from relatives, which would be the case if many persons were missing, leads searchers at the lake to believe that few more, if any, bodies will be found. Arlie Dean, of Newark, reported missing last night, returned home shortly after midnight, unhurt.

Most of the injured were from Columbus.

Myron E. Hill, of Columbus, was caught beneath the wreckage of the bath house, and Mrs. M. Wohrle and M. Seigler, also of Columbus, who died at a local hospital early today, were in cottages which were demolished.

Coming from the southwest, the tornado struck the resort just east of the Mauger Hotel, making a wide sweep around the Ohio Electric station, it tore up the track and uprooted poles for several hundred yards, demolishing cottages on both sides of the spur line which leads to Helron. Passing on east, the twister demolished the figure eight, old mill and miniature railway station, took the

AMERICAN FEDERATION OF LABOR CONVENTION OPENS IN CINCINNATI

CINCINNATI, O., June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The "open shop," unemployment, wage reductions, recognition of soviet Russia, the one big union, court decisions and injunctions affecting labor and other subjects formed the major issues that confronted the American Federation of Labor when it opened its two weeks' convention here today. The report of the federation's executive council on many of these issues was ready for presentation to the delegates.

No debate was on the program for the opening sessions because of the preliminary routine and introduction of resolutions, some of these possibly presenting new issues.

Delegates here for the opening were estimated to number 500 forming what Samuel Gompers, the federation president, described as "the parliament of labor."

"Our consideration of industry and industrial problems," said a formal statement by Mr. Gompers, forecasting the convention's work, "will be from the point of view of service to the masses of our people. Our consideration of political problems will be from the point of view of freedom and progress for humanity."

The big national guard armory, far removed from the city's business district, is the seat of the convention.

Delegates, forming in parade downtown, marched on in a body for the opening of the session at 10 o'clock. A thousand flags formed the decorations and a band of 100 pieces played the accompaniment for delegates in singing "America" as the first item on the program.

After prayer by the Rev. Father Peter Dietz, the program centered about a series of welcome addresses by Governor Harry L. Davis, Mayor George P. Carol, Secretary T. J. Donnelly, of the Ohio State Federation of Labor, and others, ending with Adolf Kummer, the temporary chairman, presenting a gavel made by Cincinnati carpenters, to Mr. Gompers.

LONDON, June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The articles of the new Irish constitution have been revised so satisfactorily, the Evening Star asserts today, that Arthur Griffith will return to Dublin with them tonight. It adds that Colonial Secretary Churchill may postpone his statement in the house of commons until tomorrow, so that announcement of the agreement may be made simultaneously in London and in Dublin.

The whole six points raised by the British signatories to the Anglo-Irish treaty in connection with the framing of the constitution have been adjusted, the newspaper declares, and the problem of the immediate future is a settlement between Michael Collins and Eamon DeValera. The adjustment, the newspaper adds, is believed to be largely due to the skill and dexterity of Lord Ewart, the lord chief justice, who has been playing a prominent part in the negotiations here.

Churchill Delays Statement
LONDON, June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Winston Churchill, the colonial secretary, announced in the house of commons this afternoon that it would be more convenient and in the interest of the general public if he deferred his statement on Ireland, which it had been expected he would deliver today, until Tuesday or possibly Thursday.

Kato's Cabinet Branded Reactionary

TOKIO, June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The cabinet of former Premier Takahashi, smashed through opposition to his liberal ideas, has been succeeded by one whose announced watch word is economy and which, a portion of the vernacular press declares, has tinges of reactionism.

These comments, directed so far chiefly at the new premier, Admiral Baron Kato, who took office today, are re-enforced by others leveled at his policy of naming a non-party government, which affects all the members.

Most of the members have seen service in former cabinets or in other governmental positions.

Girls Jump From Auto To Escape "Strangers"

HAMILTON, O., June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Miss Ruby Norris, 24, recounted to Coroner Edward Cook today the emphasis which her mother had put on advice never to accept automobile rides from strangers. It was while following this advice that she was bruised and her companion, Miss Nannie Bowman, 24, was fatally injured, following a dance Saturday. They accepted a ride from three men, one of whom Miss Bowman believed an acquaintance. Within a short distance she discovered otherwise and both women leaped from the auto without asking the driver to stop. Coroner Cook exonerated the three men.

DEATH TOLL PASSES THE SIXTY MARK IN NEW YORK

NEW YORK, June 12.—The death toll of the brief but terrific hurricane that swooped down on the Metropolitan area late yesterday passed the sixty mark today with indications that the total number of dead might go much higher.

The death list leaped ahead when an incoming tide turned up eighteen more bodies than had been swept out to sea last night. Four more bodies were recovered at Hunter's Island and two were reported to have been picked up at Travers' Island.

City Island—haven for Sunday pleasure-seekers, and amateur fishermen—was the hardest hit point in the Metropolitan area, but casualties, mostly by drowning, were reported from many other points. The beach at City Island today presented a desolate spectacle. Several hundred persons, relatives of the missing—worn by hysteria, waited in little groups among the wreckage on the sand for some word of the fate of their loved ones.

Marine police, exhausted by their all-night vigil, continued their cruise, keeping a sharp outlook for additional bodies.

The full toll of the storm may not be known for days, if ever. The crowds that thronged City Island yesterday were drawn from all parts of the Metropolitan district, and probably numbered many persons from distant points.

By noon fourteen persons had been listed as missing.

Boatmen at City Island said there were 46 small boats as yet unaccounted for. Occupants of many of these undoubtedly were saved by the United States coast guards and by members of yacht clubs about the island. But the police believe many more were lost.

All the damage was wrought in less than a quarter of an hour. The New York weather bureau reports the storm lasted officially but five minutes. It was described as "a severe thunder squall," during which the wind averaged 72 miles an hour. There was a brief period when the wind velocity touched 88 miles.

Daybreak this morning found hundreds of parents, children and relatives still standing vigil at the docks at City Island, awaiting the arrival of police boats, which during the hours of darkness had searched the waters of Long Island Sound for additional victims of yesterday's terrific storm. Powerful searchlights played over the water as the ghastly quest went on.

More than sixty persons were thought to have lost their lives and upwards of 100 were injured in the tempest, which roared out of the hills of northern New Jersey, beat the Hudson into foam capped breakers, swept across New York City and then seemed to center its wild energy on City Island and its vicinity.

Resembled Battle-Torn Village
Thousands of row boats and launches dotted the sound off City Island just before the breaking of the storm. When it had passed the water was strewn with overturned craft and the buildings on shore resembled a battle torn village in No Man's Land. Many parties hurrying for safety saw people struggling in the water, but dared not stop for fear of capsizing their own craft. The rescue work started immediately, but darkness and the panic-stricken crowds hindered the labors of the volunteer life savers.

Property damage estimated at from $1,000,000 to several times that amount was done by the tornado. The storm followed a day of intense heat and was as sudden as it was violent. Low hanging clouds across the Hudson river were observed, but they seemed to be far away and danger was unforeseen. Then, like magic, the western heavens took on a sinister aspect, the clouds seemed to dip toward the earth and before the frightened people exposed to the elements could reach places of safety, the wind came.

Ferris Wheel Struck
Clifton's Point, a pleasure ground near City Island, was in the direct path of the hurricane. A ferris wheel, heavily freighted with children and young people, had just begun to revolve with its passengers when the twister struck it. So sudden was the transition from a bright June sky to lumpy clouds that the men in charge of the wheel could not stop it and discharge the people in the cars before the top of the wheel was torn away and the remainder crashed to the ground a tangled skein of steel. Dozens were hurled in the wreck. Six bodies were later taken out and more than two score were attended by ambulance surgeons. A seventh victim died this morning. Frail buildings were crushed by the mighty weight of the wind, electric light wires were torn away and in the darkness and torrential rain the rescuers could do little until the storm had subsided.

Tear Blindly Through Wreckage
Hysterical men and women, tearing blindly at the wreckage, hindered rather than helped the workers engaged in lifting the ruins of the wheel. Police reserves numbering 200, were rushed to the scene and they restored order.

The gale, which swept across the entire Metropolitan district, was accompanied by rain, which stung like a lash from the force of the wind. Huge trees in Central Park were uprooted and tossed across the drive-ways. Five people were hurt when the wind blew out great plate glass from stores along Broadway and scattered lumber, shingles and clothing along the street.

Lightning Hit Street Car
In Brooklyn lightning struck a street car and knocked six passengers unconscious.

Electric signs along the White Way seemed special targets of the cyclonic wind. A huge sign extolling the virtues of an automobile tire was torn loose from its moorings, toppled over onto a skylight, carried a smaller sign with it in its plunge and started a fire from disconnected wiring. The force of the crash set off an automobile burglar and fire alarm.

Parkersburg Suffers In Storm
PARKERSBURG, W. VA.—Three buildings were struck by lightning, two houses were overturned because of being undermined by the rush of water from the hillsides, the main streets of the city were awash with four to six inches of water which the sewers were unable to carry away, two men killed in a barn where they had taken refuge from the storm, and hail stones as large as hen eggs fell in the country districts during the heavy storm which prevailed here last night, with the wind at a velocity of about 75 miles an hour.

Floods Wreak Havoc In Oneida
ONEIDA, N. Y.—Damage estimated at $500,000 resulted from the flooding of Oneida and Cowshegan creeks, after a cloud burst last night. The entire eastern section of the city was under five feet of water. (Continued on Page Nine)

Another John Miller

John Miller, prominent Union township farmer, has been made the "butt" of a lot of good natured kidding from his friends by reason of the name "John Miller," appearing twice in the Commissioners' annual report, published recently, carrying the inference that he was paid $12 in one instance and $93 on another occasion for road work.

Despite Mr. Miller's denial of receiving only the $12 for work on the Deemer road, his tormentors persisted in reminding him of getting "easy money" until patience ceased to be a virtue and he demanded an investigation. In justice to Mr. Miller, it should be said that the investigation disclosed that there is no other man by the same name who drew the $93 referred to for work on the Comstock road.

Credit Man Flays Gompers

CLEVELAND, O., June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—Addressing the Retail Credit Men's National Association convention here today, J. Harry Tregoe, of New York, speaking of the recent criticism of the United States supreme court by Samuel Gompers, said: "The man who says our courts are wrong, is a liar."

"The safety of America is threatened by barbarians like those who caused the downfall of Rome," Mr. Tregoe said. "One of the unfortunate tendencies of the present day is to attack the courts. Our courts have been our salvation and we should never utter a word against their integrity."

"We have in this country one man, Mr. Samuel Gompers, who says when the courts render a decision against organized labor, that it is all wrong. Such an attitude is not worthy a citizen of America. I say the man who says our courts are wrong, is a liar."

BIBLE SCHOOL OPENS

The Daily Vacation Bible School of the First Presbyterian church opens with an enthusiastic crowd of 70 children ranging in ages from four through twelve. The Daily Vacation Bible School began its regular summer session this morning.

The first vacation bible school was held at the First church and each succeeding summer has found the children eager to participate in its delightful "play school" program.

The school this year is under the direction of Miss Estella Welby who has charge also of the young boys and who is assisted by the following corps of teachers: Miss Page Geer, boys and girls; Mrs. W. H. Gleiser, primary boys and girls. Mrs. Gleiser is especially capable for this work, being a graduate of Chicago Kindergarten College; Donald Phillips and Harry Wagner, junior boys athletics. Rev. W. H. Gleiser is taking charge of opening exercises memory work. Bible stories, habit talks and patriotic talks.

The enrollment is expected to grow daily this week and with enthusiasm high—a great session is expected.

Wednesday under adult supervision the older boys are planning a swim in the pool at the auditorium and later some hot ball games are being scheduled. Last year their team went through the season undefeated.

The last day of school will find all the pupils of the Vacation Bible School and all those of the Sunday School joining in a large old fashioned Sunday School picnic of the kind Mr. Geo. D. Scudder made famous to the children of the church. Superintendent William H. Schwartz has secured the Davis excursion boat and Coney Island for afternoon and evening of June 30 and a real boat ride and picnic is assured.

UNITED SPANISH WAR VETERANS' CONVENTION OPENS: BIG PARADE AND BALL TONIGHT

Memorial Service At The Columbia Impressive Event

With close to 100 delegates and visitors in attendance, the twenty-third annual encampment of the United Spanish War Veterans Department of Ohio, convened here last night with an impressive memorial service held in the Columbia theatre. Although Department Commander John G. DeCamp declared the encampment officially opened with the opening of the memorial service last night, the real business of the state-wide session of delegates did not begin until nine o'clock this morning when the veterans and auxiliary members went into secret session in the auditorium and gymnasium of the high school.

The Portsmouth high school is the headquarters for the convention, the exterior of the big building being beautifully decorated for the meeting. The main auditorium where the veterans are holding their sessions is also decorated with the national colors. Special preparations were made for the women to hold their meetings in the gym. A number of chairs were placed about the big gym, which is also decorated with flags, hunting and national colors.

The memorial service last night was the only public session of the encampment, the sessions today, tomorrow and Wednesday to be closed, with only registered delegates attending. This afternoon, the only session held by the veterans was for members of the Military Order of the Serpent, their meeting starting at two o'clock. The big event of today's program is the monster military parade and grand military ball that will be held tonight, starting at 7:30 o'clock.

Tuesday morning the veterans and women will hold another business session, while in the afternoon all will adjourn to Millbrook park for an outing with New Boston high school and Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home boys' nine playing a ball game as the main attraction. The local committee will serve refreshments at the park.

Tuesday night the big snake parade will be held, followed by degree work in this order, the fun organization of the veterans. Business sessions Wednesday morning close the encampment officially. Plans are being made for an Ohio river boat ride for Wednesday afternoon.

Delegates and officers of the state encampment began arriving Saturday night and by Sunday afternoon when department headquarters opened at the Washington hotel several hundred men and women were "strangers within the city." Sunday afternoon close to 175 delegates registered and there were many more here who could not register as their credentials had not arrived.

At 7:30 Sunday evening the memorial service at the Columbia theatre started with close to 1000 persons in the theatre. The cadet band from the Soldiers' and Sailors' Orphans' Home at Xenia occupied the orchestra pit, while on the platform were seated, Department Commanders John G. DeCamp, Chaplain Rev. Samuel Griffith, Ezra K. Filbert, Department Adjutant A. D. Alcorn of Cincinnati, Judge E. E. Corn of Columbus and Ironton, Mayor W. N. Gableman, Harry W. Mathiott of the local camp, U. S. W. V. Mrs. Edna D. Holloway, Department President, Ladies' Auxiliary, of Akron, Mrs. Cora Thompson of Portland, Oregon, President General, National Encampment, Mrs. Florence Clark, Cleveland, Junior Vice President General National Encampment, and Mrs. Gertrude R. Herrick, Department Secretary.

Department Commander, DeCamp called the gathering to attention and ordered the colors brought forward. Color Sergeants John J. Van Dusen and Thomas Roush of Cincinnati, marching forward and placing the colors on their standards on the stage, after which the encampment salute was given, followed by prayer by Department Chaplain Rev. Samuel Griffith.

Commander DeCamp then turned the meeting over to Harry Mathiott, of Peersless Camp, who presided as chairman throughout the remainder of the service. Mr. Mathiott first called upon the boys' band for a selection, after which he made the first address of welcome. He spoke on behalf of Peersless Camp and its Auxiliary and said that both organizations felt greatly honored by having the veterans and their auxiliary come here for the twenty-third encampment. Mr. Mathiott then recounted his experiences at the 1920 encampment held in Dayton when Portsmouth was mentioned as the city for the site of the 1922 encampment, but that time Lorain, lauded the meeting.

Last year he was again a delegate to the state encampment at Lorain and there he invited the encampment to Portsmouth and after much effort landed the 1922 encampment for the Peersless City. When the convention was invited here Portsmouth did not have a Ladies' Auxiliary or a Serpent Order, but in the last year the local members have been busy and have organized an auxiliary and a fair of the Snakes here. In his remarks he said: "Comrades and ladies of the auxiliary on behalf of Peersless Camp and its auxiliary, I bid you a most hearty welcome to our city." Continuing Mr. Mathiott said that the committee in charge had been working hard and had endeavored to make this the best convention of all. In a few words he recalled the days of '08 when the young men of the nation hearkened to the call of marching tunes and left their homes to avenge the blowing up of the Maine. He told of the triumphant return home and the passing in review at Washington and how now all gather to honor and pay tribute to those who fell and have gone before.

He then introduced Mayor William N. Gableman, who made the following address of welcome on behalf of the city:

"Out in Tracy Park there stands a monument erected by this community as a Memorial to one of its sons who was the first Ohio soldier to lose his life in the great Civil War. I never pass that heroic figure of Private John Barne without a mixed feeling of veneration and of grateful memory. For him was named the Grand Army Post of which my late father was a member and among my earliest recollections are the stories of sacrifice and comradeship further would relate of that great conflict."

Portsmouth, too, was the home of one of the illustrious participants of the Spanish-American War—General Jacob H. Smith. Impartial history now credits him as one of the most effective and far-seeing strategists of the Philippine Campaign.

"My recollections of your war, gentlemen, are those of a youth still in school, but they are vivid none the less. I can recall that within a fortnight after the Santiago battle a wounded son of a neighbor appeared upon our village streets. A short time later another who had succumbed to disease in the Philippines was brought home for military burial. With the neighborly concern which this war crisis always awakens, we grieved with Portsmouth over four sons lost from her company, that had marched away from this city in answer to their Country's call."

"More recently we have seen this community rise, wholeheartedly and in unison for every demand made by the Great World War. Again it offered one of the first, if not the very first Ohio sons upon the altar of sacrifice. And after Private Crabtree came many more, nearly 200 to be exact. Scitote County lads, Lieut. Col. Dickler, Capt. Robe, Lieut. Joines, Williams and all the rest inspired to their supreme sacrifice by the worthy examples set by those now assembled in this reunion and in our country's earlier wars."

"I make use of these personal observations in extending to the Spanish War Veterans and their Auxiliaries, the courtesies of our fair city, so that they may realize that they have come to a community that, like them, has always thrived with most patriotic impulse. Our citizenship you will find responsive to the ideals of your organization."

"It is well that you keep your ranks intact and make these annual visits to some city of our great State for out of your deliberations and your renewed association can come to everyone the added stimulus to greater love of country and gratitude to its defenders in time of national peril. It goes without saying that your association one with another will be delightful. It is indeed a fraternal reunion such as no other secular gathering can furnish. And all the while, as I have said, there will radiate from its flames of great or good to our community."

"Doubtless much of your stay will be occupied with the recounting of experiences in camp and battle and the necessary business of your organization. But in the city's behalf I am hopeful that you may find time to view its scenes of natural beauty and the really notable industrial achievements, which attest to our part in the world's work. Situated here in the two river valleys with the hills of Old Kentucky as silent sentinels over our agricultural and industrial life we contend that we are surely favored of Providence."

"If your individual taste is along pastoral lines, you may view one of the most fertile valleys of the continent. If you are of industrial bent, we boast factories that have nationwide fame because of their wide-fare work. To the technical mind the C. & O. N. railway bridge across the Ohio will carry an appeal especially when advised that it is the longest span of a certain type upon the globe. To the one interested in commerce the million-dollar dam built in the Ohio by the Federal Government as part of the fifty-million canalization project will appeal. In any aspect, the big steel plant with its kindered industries, the blast furnace, the Solway Products Plant and the rod mill, now nearing completion will be cause for one to marvel. Likewise, the triple terminals of the N. & W. railway with its seeming endless line of monster engines, carrying coal trains thru from the W. Va. fields."

"We have not only our streets, but our pikes and boulevards with brick and the coming of the heavy truck has demonstrated the wisdom of our brick program. Building and paving brick from this city go by train and barge to distant points of our land."

"Nor should our boast be all of our work for we have pride in our educational and recreational activities and in our beautiful churches and schools. If your heart is attuned to the artistic our citizens can point out to you the childhood home of Julia Marlowe and the boyhood home of the late Will Lampton, the poet."

Upon our children's playground or recreational center, even now are embryos Bridewells, Rickers, Southworth and McHenry; these of a score of diamond heroes of this and other days. Just a half hour's motor trip would bring you to the 10,000 acre Game Preserve which the State has purchased in our West Side Hills."

"We have a happy, prosperous, contented Portsmouth and we are never so happy as when we have the visitor within our gates. Upon the City's behalf I bespeak for you a cordial greeting from the neighbors of your comrades down here and our dearest hope is that it will be with reluctant feet that you take leave of us when your joys of this reunion have come to an end."

A quartet composed of Mrs. Pearl Selby, Miss Bertha Stanger, J. Watson Goddard and Oberster Rigles rendered two beautiful selections, after which Chairman Mathiott called upon Commander DeCamp for a response to the welcome to the veterans. Commander DeCamp in a few words thanked the speakers for the words of welcome and introduced Judge E. E. Corn of Ironton and Columbus, who took the place of Commander DeCamp. Judge Corn in his response said:

"The Department of Ohio U. S. W. V. and its auxiliaries and visitors deeply appreciate your generous welcome so cordially extended. Our representatives from the first were made to feel and know that Portsmouth—The Peersless City—and its inhabitants all meant that not only were we welcome, but that we are to be shown the fact that nothing is to be left undone that will contribute to our comfort and convenience. If all those strangers in this city knew it as I do, no words of welcome from its chiefmen would have been necessary, for I know we could have walked in and taken possession as it would have been perfectly all right with these generous-hearted Portsmouth people."

And so we assure you Mr. Mayor and through you the citizens you represent that our hearts are more of gratitude than the representative chosen to respond to you is able to express."

Words of welcome are always pleasing. Do we not all remember the historical story of that awful first winter of our Pilgrim Fathers in which 44 out of the 100 died, and how they took on new hope when the Indian Chief Samoset walked to their midst in the early spring and cried: "Welcome Englishmen!"

It brought joy to their hearts just as the welcoming words of Big Chief Gableman of these good Indians here in Portsmouth put us in perfect ease and brought joy to our hearts."

"What is a welcome? It is defined as a 'salutation to a newcomer, a kind reception of a guest whereby he is admitted willingly and with gladness.'"

And His Honor has put the full meaning and then some into the breadth and depth of the welcome accorded us."

I am admonished by the length of this program and the amenities of the occasion that this response should be brief, but I can not refrain from calling the attention of our hosts and of this audience to the fact that it is no mean body of men and women that have been welcomed so heartily to the freedom of this growing city."

The city of Portsmouth this week is entertaining a body of men and their auxiliaries who fought and won a war unparalleled in the history of the world, when we consider the motive which prompted it, the time it continued, the heroism displayed and the results achieved."

In common with all wars not all of us were permitted to participate in actual battle, but we were all there ready to dare, to do and to die for the cause we had espoused and for the flag we loved and yet love. God bless that flag—long may it wave! It has never yet trailed in the dust of defeat."

She has been in many a fix since seventeen seventy-six. But the old flag has never touched the ground."

What was the motive? I shall not stop to discuss the conditions prevailing in Cuba which culminated in the awfulness to the regime of the Butcher Weyler until the appeals of that poor people could no longer be ignored and so the martyred McKinley, our war president, said to Congress, April 11, 1898, in his message asking for power to intervene:

"In the name of humanity, in the name of civilization, in behalf of endangered American interests, which give us the right and duty to speak and act, the war in Cuba must stop."

The power was given, the war for humanity and not conquest, was fought, and the cruel war in Cuba did stop, thanks to the "daring bravery and efficiency of the American soldier."

As soon as the power to intervene was conferred upon the President on April 23, 1898, he called for 125,000 volunteers, of which 5248 and six were the proud representatives of Ohio's quota of volunteers in that war for humanity are the guests of your city tonight."

War was declared by a resolution of Congress on April 24, 1898, the protocol suspending hostilities was signed by President McKinley, Aug. 12, 1898, but hostilities did not actually cease until the 18th day of August, a period of 116 days."

If my memory is not at fault, in the very last engagement of the war the Fourth Ohio played a conspicuous part and the Portsmouth company of that regiment was right there and on the job."

Now what was accomplished in this, the shortest war of our history? A war for humanity and civilization was fought, a precedent was set for sending American soldiers to foreign soil to fight for a principle, men were made famous for individual daring and bravery, Cuba was made free and Porto Rico and other Spanish Islands of the West Indies and the Philippine Islands were all added to the United States. And so I say in many respects this war is unparalleled in history and the men and women who were connected with it have a right to a commendable pride in their achievements."

One thing further and I am done. Added to the achievements of this war, Mr. Mayor, these representatives of the Department of Ohio U. S. W. V. come to you with a record since that war of 24 years ago of good citizenship, loyalty to flag and country, and of ready obedience to its court and laws and you are perfectly safe in yielding to them the freedom of your beautiful and progressive city."

Mrs. Edna D. Holloway, Department President of the Ladies' Auxiliary, then responded for the auxiliary and after a few brief words of thanks for such a warm welcome extended presented the State Department of U. S. W. V. with a new silk American flag and a purse of nearly $25 which is to be used in the purchase of a new department banner, the gifts she explained being from the auxiliaries. Commander DeCamp accepted the gifts, saying that such actions on behalf of the women were certainly a surprise and that they were as certainly appreciated."

Mrs. Florence Clark was next introduced and with a few well chosen words presented Mrs. Cora Thompson, president general of the auxiliary, national encampment, with a big box of chocolates and a $10 bill, one presentation coming, she explained from the auxiliaries of Ohio. Mrs. Thompson thanked the ladies for their remembrance and made the following remarks:

"I have been respectfully asked why are you so interested in your patriotic work? It is because I love my America! It is the refuge of every nation under the sun. They come from the west, north and south to enjoy the freedom and protection that is ours."

"The love of freedom is a something that is hidden in the heart of every human being and our America gives us the privilege of enjoying that freedom, religiously, politically and socially. We can go back to the landing of the May Flower, when our forefathers started out to find some place on God's earth, where they could worship according to the dictates of their conscience and serve their fellow man regardless of rank or position. It was the respect for things sacred and the regards for the country, that patriotism which caught the most solemn manner and determined fortitude they swore to die if they could not live free men for equality, justice and God, and so on down through the ages has flowed, that same spirit of freedom and patriotism, the high, the sublime, the exalted emotions of a patriotism which soaring toward heaven rise far above all mean, low or selfish things and is absorbed by one soul transporting thought—the good and glory of our country, that patriotism which catches the inspiration of the immortal God and leaving at an immeasurable distance personal interests and feelings animates and prompts to deeds of self sacrifice of valor of devotion and of death itself."

"We can look back over the past generations and view with satisfaction and pride what America has done for the world. We have been repeatedly told that the highest praise that could fairly be given the American mind was that of possessing enlightened selfishness. Our country for the universal good of mankind has carried into successful operation a system of self government uniting personal liberty, freedom of opinion, equality of rights, with national power and dignity. America can call forth on every emergency either in war or peace a body of talented patriots always equal to the difficulty."

"We have given to the world examples of patriotism, of political wisdom, of public virtue, of learning eloquence, valor never exerted save for some praise-worthy end. We have no cause to blush for our land of liberty. Though the arts have reared few monuments among us and scarce a trace of the Moore Footstep is found in the paths of our forests or on the banks of our rivers, yet our soil has been consecrated by the blood of heroes and by great and holy deeds of virtue. Its wide expanse has become one vast temple, sanctified by the prayers and blessings of the persecuted of every sect and the wretched of all nations, and when we go over the past it recalls sad and glorious memories of patriotism, sacrifice and heroism of those who died for America on every battle field from Lexington to Argonne."

"American soldiers and sailors have never yet fought for conquest of territory. They fought and died for liberty, right and justice. They died that this republic might live and that our system of government with its noble ideals might endure and be a hope and inspiration to the sons of men in every land beneath the stars."

"In these days when the spirit of social unrest is in the air, it is most essential that American citizens of every age and creed, native born and adopted alike, should keep the fire of American patriotism burning in their hearts so that this government of the people, by the people and for the people, shall not perish from the face of the earth."

"The value of patriotism to a people is far more precious than silver or gold, far more important than territory and resources. Extinguish patriotism in the American heart tomorrow and the good, the power and glory of a common country will pass away. The American flag stands for Americanism in its highest and noblest form. It floats today over the mightiest nation and freest people on God's footstool."

"We stand today on the threshold of a new America, and as we thank our heavenly father for all blessings of the past let us ask also for guidance in the future. Our patriotic organizations have been the means and will be the means of spending through our land the examples and teachings that are of the best for a land of liberty, justice and right."

Adjutant Ezra K. Filbert then read the names of deceased members who died the past year: (the list containing 43 names. Peersless Camp lost two, Jacob T. Hobstetter and John Youngman. Mrs. Gertrude R. Herrick, department secretary, Ladies' Auxiliary, then read the names of members who died the last year, the list showing 16 had passed away. As the names of each veteran and lady was read two little girls, Ruth Taylor and Perline Zeek deposited rosebuds in a vase.

After Mrs. Bertha Stanger had rendered a vocal solo, Chairman Mathiott introduced Comrade Alcorn who gave the following memorial address:

Chairman Mathiott, then called upon Attorney Albert D. Alcorn of Cincinnati, former Past Judge Advocate General of the State Department and National Encampment, who made the following memorial address:

"In conformation to our custom we open our twenty-third annual encampment this evening with a memorial service which takes our thoughts, with sorrow, to the City of the Dead, where sleep so many who are near and dear to us."

But at the same time the service should be one of triumph, of rejoicing and of gladness, for it reminds us, with justifiable pride, of the part we took in a great service to mankind, it reminds us of the ideal for which we stood and for which we stand; the ideal epitomized in our motto, 'Freedom, Patriotism and Humanity'; the ideal that sent us to Cuba in the aid of the oppressed; the ideal that sent us across the sea when the cry of help was heard there; the ideal that will send us and future generations anywhere in this wide world necessary for its preservation."

I regard it as a rare privilege to have been a participant in two righteous wars, and who can say that any war in which the United States has yet participated has not been a righteous cause?

The opportunity for participation in a war is rare and does not come to all, but when that opportunity comes, when the issues involved spiritualize one when the fate of the government or of a people is at stake, then it is that enthusiasm mounts to ecstasy and a man in the consecrated intensity of his feelings sees a vision and is filled with an exalted patriotism for his country. The man to whom the opportunity for participation in such events never comes, whose lot is cast in ordinary times, who drifts along in the smooth current of discussion and opinion, can never know or realize the exaltation of such an experience. Watch the expression of countenances of the man who had such an opportunity but refused it, finding his cowardice behind a camouflage of conscientious objections and religious scruples, when the simple question is asked, 'With what organization did you serve?' Is his expression one of pride or rather is it one of guilt, chagrin or humiliation? No words of mine can express our contempt for the slacker and the coward."

Another year and a quarter of a century will have elapsed since our "skirmish" with Spain, for skirmish many see fit to call it. Why even our comrades of the Civil War regarded our claims as war veterans with an indulgent smile and in many instances gave precedence over us in places of honor to their own sons with no greater claim than that of being sons of Veterans."

But, comrades, the Spanish War, even if only a skirmish, has meant much in the history of this country. It did more than any other one thing could do to efface sectionalism and to promote a better feeling between the North and the South. It reaffirmed the Monroe Doctrine and it gave us a standing among world powers we did not theretofore have, because it showed to the world that our intervention in Cuba was from unselfish motives and purely in the interest of humanity."

The government of Cuba by Spain for fifty years before the war had been most arbitrary, inefficient, unjust and oppressive. All voice and representation in its affairs had been denied the inhabitants; without public improvements, not even ordinary highways, they were taxed out of all proportion to their ability to pay. The taxes collected amounted to about twenty-five million dollars annually, although the total number of inhabitants, including all classes and nationalities, Cubans, Spaniards, Negroes, Americans and all others, was about one and a half millions and most of them very poor. In addition to the usual real and personal tax, the Spanish authorities had imposed special taxes and license fees of every kind and description. Among other things, the Cubans were taxed upon each window, each pane of glass, upon each door and upon each chimney. They were taxed for almost every kind of business transaction, such as entering your name on a hotel register."

Not being able to suppress the insurrection by the usual means they had already practiced, the Spanish authorities adopted what is known as the "reconcentration policy."

This inhuman policy required all the country people, men, women and children, to be gathered together in the outskirts of the cities, towns and villages where they were kept huddled together under military guard, sometimes thousands in a place for months with inadequate food, clothing, shelter and sanitary conditions. As a result, in one year more than 200,000 died, veritably tortured and starved to death. This policy might be more properly described as one of starvation and extermination."

Many of our own citizens residing in Cuba and in business there were arrested, imprisoned and subjected to hardships, indignities and loss of property. Although we demanded reparations, our demands were ignored without even apology. There had been going on for years. The liberty-loving people of the United States were in sympathy with the Cubans and were pressing Congress for intervention. The situation had grown so acute that it was difficult to maintain friendly relations with Spain. To relieve the tension it was thought advisable to send the Battleship Maine to port a friendly visit to Havana. Spain was invited to send one of her warships to New York. When the Maine reached Havana, January 25, 1898, her anchorage in the harbor was designated by the Harbor Pilot. She received the customary salutes and ceremonial visits from the officials. From that time her officers continued to exchange courtesies with the Spanish officials. SPANISH WAR VETERANS

ers and men sleeping within her steel walls. The news of this disaster aroused the nation. Like a mighty wave, the fighting fever swept the United States, North and South, East and West. "Remember the Maine" became the national rallying cry.

Whatever our politics, whether we be Republican or Democrat, we should never fail to give our own fighting men the full credit they are due. It was he who introduced the joint resolution of March 20, 1898, beginning:

"Be it Resolved By the Senate and the House of Representatives of the United States of America:

1. That the people of the island of Cuba are, and of right ought to be free and independent. The resolution was adopted, war was declared, a call for 175,000 volunteers was issued. It met with an immediate response. A second call met with a similar response, all volunteers.

That American can ever forget that eventful first day of May, 1898, when at break of day Admiral Dewey began his spectacular destruction of the Spanish fleet in Manila Bay.

which was accomplished without the loss of a single American life, or that other naval victory at Santiago when Admiral Sampson and Commodore Schley reduced to junk the flower of the Spanish fleet which was trying to make its escape?

It viewed only in the light of the results accomplished in the emancipation of Cuba from the tyranny and oppression of Spain and the establishment of a stable government over that island, the war was necessary. It was just and it was right for it was in the interest of humanity and we gladly assumed at its victorious conclusion the new responsibilities imposed upon us as a World Power.

This war lasted only 109 days and was remarkable in that we did not suffer a single defeat. Not a prisoner, not a color, not a gun, not a rifle was captured by the enemy.

Long before the commencement of the World War it was known that Germany was making every preparation for war. The military party was in complete control. In December, 1913, in a little town called Sarre, in Alsace, where some German Infantry was stationed, a lieutenant of noble birth made the remark that he would give ten marks to anyone who would run a sword through an Alsatian blackguard. The Alsatians, of course, resented this and meetings of protest were held all over that part of the country. Excitement was running high, intensified by the fact that this same lieutenant struck a lame cobbler with his sword. The incident provoked discussion pro and con throughout Germany. The matter was brought to the attention of the Kaiser, who said that the army should be upheld without apology. This is historically known as the Zabern affair. In May, following on the adjournment of the Reichstag, certain members refused to stand and cheer the name of the Kaiser, as had always been the custom. This was considered as a direct insult to his majesty.

These things demonstrated to the military attorney of Germany that it was losing ground—losing its grip on the people, and that unless the war, for which they had so long prepared, was commenced soon, it might be prevented altogether by the people through the anti-military party coming into control. A pretext for commencing the war must be found quickly. Nothing better appearing, the assassination of the Archduke of Austria was regarded as sufficient excuse to force the issue. As his assassination occurred in Serbia and was the alleged cause of the war, one would naturally think that that country would be the scene of the first conflict. But such was not the case. The first overt act of the Germans in commencing the war was the invasion of Belgium, a country 130 miles from the scene of the assassination.

The assassination of that prince of the Royal blood was the first brand that set all Europe ablaze. Like a prairie fire fanned by the wind, it ate its way into nearly every country in Europe. Even oceans between, could not stay its fury and after three years, its flames licked this country when it became a World War indeed.

It became necessary to send General Jack Pershing with thousands upon thousands of our gallant firemen across the seas. Is there a more dramatic moment in history than when he stood at the grave of LaFayette and exclaimed: "LaFayette, we are here." Thanks to his presence and assistance, the fire that was sweeping Europe and threatened the world was put out—no, not put out, or rather was only smothered. It is a grave question, one not yet settled, whether or not they returned leaving a spark that will rekindle and produce a greater conflagration than ever.

I am not one of those who believe that because it is said that "God has made of the blood of all nations to dwell together in unity," that the time is ripe for a higher regard for the nations of the world collectively than for our own nation. In God's own time that day may come, but first, as Dr. Ascham has recently said, "There must take place within the nature of man, changes, revolutionary in character, and extraordinarily difficult to achieve. Until the human instincts of envy, greed, jealousy and hate are transformed into a complete subordination to, and service of a moral and religious brotherhood, our national human nature will provoke conflicts."

As is the man, so is the nation, and until that change in the moral and religious nature of man is effected, we should love, and reverence the United States of America above all other countries.

I believe, however, that every effort possible should be made to lessen the number, as well as the horrors of war, yes, and to prevent them altogether. For unless civilization sooner or later finds a way to put an end to war, war will put an end to civilization.

The Washington Disarmament conference is illustrative of what can be accomplished along these lines. As a result of that conference, the people of the countries participating have been imposed, if the international naval race had continued. It has at least postponed, if not prevented altogether, the war with Japan into which we were inevitably headed.

Out of the conference at Genoa, which was postponed to meet at The Hague, we hope agreements will grow which will effect a similar holiday as to land warfare and which, if accomplished will send these two conferences down into history as the two greatest constructive conferences in the history of the world. Nations can live at peace without great forts and menacing guns along their borders. It has been demonstrated by Canada and the United States. The boundary between these two countries is 3,000 miles long. Yet for more than a century we have lived at peace with our neighbor, without the burden of maintaining a necessarily great army along the border and a great navy on the lakes.

If the great nations of the world could agree upon a limitation of armaments and the establishment of a proper tribunal for the peaceful solution of national disputes that must necessarily arise, we will have made a distinct advance toward the ultimate goal of universal, enduring peace. But until we can arrive at some such agreement we should not be in favor of disarmament by this country for its moral effect on other countries and until then we should be nationalists. We should be Americans and we should stand and fight for the principles for which our flag is the symbol.

Oh, my comrades, eternal vigilance is the price of our liberty. Like most natural gifts it is held in light esteem and is rarely appreciated until it is lost.

Let us here in this Memorial Service consecrate ourselves anew to the cause in which we, as volunteers in the Spanish American War and successors to the Volunteers of the Civil War, enlisted; the cause which was so nobly carried on by our successors, the Veterans of the World War. Let us as members of this organization, devote our energies and our talents to the preservation of liberty against the aggression of men and institutions who are constantly seeking to deprive us of this natural right.

Let us devote ourselves to maintaining this country, as it ever has been as the freest, the safest, the strongest and the best governed country on earth.

That which made Israel great and the chosen people of God has made America our heritage and the object of our triumphant song.

"My country 'tis of thee,
Sweet land of liberty,
Our Fathers' God to Thee
Author of liberty,
Of Thee we sing."

At the close of the address Miss Alma Aschcraft of the Orphans' Home at Xenia was called upon for a vocal solo and she rendered "Face To Face." Another selection by the boys' band was followed by the audience singing the national anthem after which the colors were retired and Chaplain Griffith gave the benediction.

The first surprise of the twenty-third annual encampment was sprung Sunday evening at the memorial service when Mrs. Edna D. TIMES REPORTER MADE SUPREME SACRIFICE

The reunion of Spanish American War Veterans, now being held in Portsmouth, is of particular interest to The Times for a young reporter left his desk in this office in 1906 in response to the call to duty, served faithfully and well, and finally gave up his life, dying from typhoid while in Porto Rico. This young man, Elbert Patterson, was the son of the principal owner of The Times and was a bright and gifted young man. He had a splendid future before him, being a natural newspaper man.

Civil War Vets Meet

BUYER, O., June 12.—(By the Associated Press)—The 56th annual encampment of Civil War Veterans of Ohio and auxiliary organizations got under way here today. Trains and automobiles were bringing the aged soldiers and their families in from an early hour this morning. Auxiliary organizations that will meet in conjunction include the Women of the Grand Army of the Republic, the Women's Relief Corps, Daughters of Veterans, and the Sons of Veterans Auxiliary. The annual parade will be held Thursday. Officers of all organizations also will be elected and installed Thursday.

Scouts Acting As Guides

Many Boy Scouts got in several hours on their Public Service yesterday, when they acted as guides to delegates to the Spanish American War Veterans.

After the delegates had registered at the high school, Boy Scouts were ready to guide any who did not know the city, to the places they had been assigned to. As soon as a scout had conducted his party to their lodging house, he returned, reported to Scout Executive Griffith, and was assigned as guide to another group. Some scouts put their automobiles at the Veterans' service, with themselves as chauffeur and took large groups of ladies with their baggage to their destinations.

The following from the Huntington Advertiser will be read with interest as the Misses Olive and Lillian Chinn are residents of this city, and Miss Ruth Politt is also well known here:

"Lambda Chapter, of Delta Sigma Epsilon, a national educational sorority, has been installed officially at Marshall college.

"Installation services were held at the home of Miss Ruth Politt on Eleventh avenue. Mrs. J. Edward List, national president, Miss Olive Chinn, Miss Lillian Chinn, of Portsmouth, O., Miss Margaret McBride, Miss Beatrice McBride and Miss Genevieve Kleinkecht, organizers of the second province, conducted the installation ceremonies.

"A banquet at the Frederick hotel followed the ceremonies. These Marshall college students were initiated: Ruth Politt, Lillian Sheets, Marye McCutcheon, Lillian Morrison, Gertrude Armstrong, Pauline Dunfee, Mae Jennings, Elizabeth Flanagan, Phyllis Harpold and Jane Atkinson.

"Delta Sigma Epsilon was founded at Miami University, Oxford, Ohio, and enters only schools offering four years' work leading to a degree.

"In August the biennial convocation of the sorority will be held at Colorado Springs, Col. Miss Beatrice McBride and Miss Mae Jennings will be the convocation representatives for Lambda chapter.

"The organizing of Delta Sigma Epsilon, the second sorority on the campus, entitles Marshall college to a Pan-Hellenic council, plans for which are under headway."

LOCAL POLITICAL POT IS BOILING

The intensity of the feeling between local republican factions is again shown by the fight under way for control of the county central committee, and also by the fact that this county presents two candidates for the republican state central committee in Frank W. Moulton and Joseph T. Micklethwait.

of committeemen and lively battles are promised in the majority of precincts, the old guard faction also presenting a list of favorites who can be depended upon to follow the leadership of John Eckhart. The outcome is problematical.

Eleventh hour interest in the race for representative resulted in a formidable list of entries, late comers including Harry Ball, Sam M. Johnson and County School Superintendent E. O. Mc-

Cowan. The entry of the latter was the real surprise of the contest. McCowan has an air tight organization of his own, through his school connection, and he also has the support of former auditor, Sampson D. Eckhart, who is a power when he chooses to exert himself. In the school fight last year McCowan piled up a bunch of enemies, mostly in his own party, and it is difficult to see where in they can overlook a chance to swat him, either at the primary or at the election. Again McCowan may have played a shrewd hand and offered the anti an easy solution of their aims by getting into the legislature and giving up the school superintendency. If that is his plan he will be smooth enough too to hold on to the school job until the last return is in so that there can be no double crossing. On the democratic side there is one fight that excites interest, that for the nomination of sheriff. There are five candidates, Distel, Kelly, Ratcliff, Bone and Henderson, with the field against Distel. The fight will be a hot one.

Three Perish

bath house off its foundations and lifted it out into the lagoon and then passed out into the eastern end of the lake, destroying cottages in the Klotz Addition east of the park.
Columbus People Killed
Myron E. Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. D. J. Hill, 1121 Camden Avenue, was drowned beneath the wreckage of the bath house. M. Seigler, 1023 Leonard avenue, received injuries from which he died at 2 a. m., as did Mrs. William Wohle, 1543 Summit street. Both the latter were taken to Newark City Hospital.

Eye witnesses of the storm marveled at the fact that hundreds were not killed. Scores of stories were told of whole families huddled in cottages to escape the storm's fury, suddenly finding themselves in the open with their home a mass of wreckage.

Forty Cottages May Be Ruined
While unofficial lists today put the total casualties at three dead and eight injured, several persons were said to be missing. Among these was Oille Dean, 17, son of J. L. Dean, 66 Hancock street, Newark.
Although the lake was dotted with boats containing fishermen and pleasure-seekers, it was believed last night that all of these had made their way safely to the shore. One canoe was found bottom side up on the lake, but it was undetermined whether its occupants had been drowned or whether the canoe had been blown into the lake by the force of the storm.
Robert W. Cleveland, 58 South Third street, Newark, narrowly escaped death. He was in the bathhouse when the storm struck and was pinned beneath a trunk under the wreckage. John Nelson, overseer of the bath house, rescued him from his perilous position. Cleveland was unhurt.
According to Nelson, three persons were on the first floor of the bathhouse, 12 on the second and none on the third. Although first reports stated that a number of bodies were believed to be beneath the wreckage of the building, Nelson said all of those in the house had been accounted for.

The resort, hit just a few weeks ago by a costly fire, was a desolate scene last night. The fire destroyed the park's lighting system, which was being served by temporary lines laid by the Ohio Electric Co. These were wrecked by the storm, and for several hours rescuers worked in twilight. By nine o'clock, however, another temporary line had been stretched, and at 10 p. m. the wreckage had been cleared from the tracks and traffic again was open into the park.

Officials of the Ohio Electric sent a relief train with doctors and nurses from Newark as soon as the reports of the storm were heard. As fast as the injured were picked from the ruins, they were taken to Hebron on a traction car, and there transferred to ambulances and taken to City Hospital, Newark. Scores of persons, slightly bruised and hurt by the storm, came home in taxicabs, as traction service was held up for several hours.
One of the narrow escapes reported was that of Mrs. Lida Pryor. With her baby in her arms, Mrs. Pryor was huddled in her cottage as the storm broke. The force of the wind lifted the cottage from over her head and carried it 100 feet. John Neis, of Newark, and a party of eight friends in an adjoining cottage, saw the ascent of the Pryor cottage, just before the building they occupied were wrecked. Uninjured they hastened to the site of the Pryor cottage. Fifty feet away, beneath the ruins of a store, were both mother and child, neither hurt in the slightest.

John Voaltz, both of whose legs were broken, was injured when a tree struck him and knocked him into the lagoon near the bath house. R. J. Brooks, 309 Gates street, jumped into the water and brought Voaltz to shore.
The path of the storm through the park was estimated to be about 300 feet wide. More than 40 cottages are believed to have been damaged, some of them utterly demolished.
The passenger boat City of Columbus, was on the lake at the time of the storm, but was able to make port safely with a large load of passengers. It is believed that the entire force of the storm was expended on the land, which probably saved the lives of the hundreds who were on the water.

The Greatest Store In Southern Ohio Bids
Welcome To The United
Spanish War Veterans of Ohio

Editorial!

Although the greatest war in all history has blotted the pages of civilization since you, as youths, presented yourselves to President McKinley upon the sinking of the Maine, your sacrifices, your patriotism and your valor has not grown dim through the years, in the minds and hearts of true Americans. There are thousands of us who remember vividly your leaving for the camps and who eagerly scanned the daily despatches for news of the conflict. Many were the men who fought and struggled; great numbers of them have passed beyond. And, though we no longer hear the blare of the trumpet or the thundering cannon, memory of what you and your comrades did, still does and always will live on.

Parade proudly, United Spanish War Veterans of Ohio, for nearly a quarter of a century ago, you did all that any men could do for their country.

THE MARKETS

NEW YORK STOCKS

NEW YORK, June 12.—The general market was actively resumed at the opening of today's stock market. Incidents over the week end, including the failure of the German loan negotiations in Paris, gave further courage to the short interests. Standard Oil, United States Steel, Baldwin Locomotive, Mexican Petroleum and several of the speculative rails were the only exceptions to the further reaction. Canadian Pacific, St. Paul, Standard Oil of N. J., Kresge, Sears-Roebuck, Republic Iron and Steel, Anaconda Copper, Industrial Alcohol, Westinghouse and American Hide and Leather preferred were lower by fractions to one point. All foreign exchanges were unsettled. The British rate reacting 1/4 from last week's final quotation. French German and Belgium bills continued to weaken.

Shorts were in control of the market through the morning. Dealings became more active as prices continued to decline. Losses of 1 to 5 points accompanied the selling of minor oils, independent steel companies, shopping and rails. Heavily featured commodities included A and B shares, Phillips Petroleum, Chauli, Wills-Overland preferred, Crude and Lackawanna Steels, Mercantile Marine preferred, Pullman Consolidated, Gas, Peoples Gas, Pacific Telephone, Standard Street, and yellow preferred and Texas and Pacific. Strength was confined to a few issues, such as Lake Erie and Western common and preferred, Virginia-Carolina Chemical and Locomotive preferred. Call money opened at 3 per cent.

The record of today's active stock market was one of steady declines. Reactions took place in practically every division chiefly speculative issues, industrials and miscellaneous issues. Easy money rates were ignored. Sales approximated 1,400,000 shares.

The closing was weak.

Chicago Grain And Provisions

CHICAGO, June 12.—Wheat harvesting to become general this week in the winter crop belt and with a bumper yield in prospect, wheat prices today underwent a material decline in the early dealings. Bears were predicting a free movement to market straight from the threshers. The fact that elevator facilities here were still clogged with grain tended further to put bulls at a disadvantage. The opening, which ranged from 1 1/2 to 1 1/4 lower, with July 1 1/4 to 1 1/4 and September 1 1/4 to 1 1/4, was followed by a decided further drop.

Corn and oats started firmer, but then sympathized with the weakness of wheat. After opening unchanged to 1/2 higher, July 62 1/2 to 63 1/2, the corn market declined all around by Saturday's finish. Oats started 1/2 to 1/4 higher, July 36 1/2 to 37 1/2, and later followed corn down again.

Lower quotations on hogs weakened the provisions market.

Yanks Beat Browns; Increase Lead

NEW YORK, June 12.—Four and a half games was the margin in the American league race, the best lead they have had at any time this season. They drove their ancient jinx, Urban Shocker, to cover yesterday for the second successive game and walloped the Browns; 8 to 4. The Yankees continued their slugging stride, while Walter Hott held the enemy in check after a shaky start.

Dame Fortune meanwhile cast her lot with the Giants and the McGraw men took a 2-1 decision from Cincinnati, although Luque allowed only three bingles, two of them scratches, while the Reds rapped Ryan for 10 hits. The only solid blow gathered off, the Cuban was a homer by Steudel, which, with another tally due to Bolne's error, proved enough to win.

Dutch Ruether had an easy time hanging up his eleventh victory of the season and Brooklyn made it two straight from the Cubs.

Zack Wheat clinched out his eighth circuit smash, in addition to a double and a single.

body and presented the pitcher with a watch, a traveling bag and flowers. Most's single, a sacrifice, O'Rourke's error of Sheely's grounder, a successfully executed squeeze play and Leverette's double put over the winning run. Leverette was hit hard, but was given perfect support. Score: BOSTON AB R H P O A

PEOPLE WHO DON'T BELONG

THE mayor of Traverse City, Mich., declares "the morals of the present generation of boys are being assailed and I propose to see that they no longer are tempted by immoral dress." Hence an order to the police to arrest any woman or girl appearing in the streets wearing knickerbockers. Probably there will be no crowding of the Traverse City jail with female rebels against this silly attempt at oppression. Nor will the enormity of wearing "knickerbockers" be so deeply impressed on any that the "trade" devoted to these garments will be seriously embarrassed. It is hopeless that people small-minded like the mayor of the Michigan town will ever realize the absurdity of their anachronistic orders, but their futility is bound to be drilled into their heads.

If there ever was a time when puritanical dress reformers received popular support it passed in the dim long ago, quite a lot of people are unconvinced that knickerbockers are suitable garments for women, but most of them are sensible enough to keep their opinions to themselves, understanding that "advanced" girls are as much entitled freely to exercise the right of opinion as any others. Three centuries ago there were attempts to inhibit long hair, flowing sleeves, paint on the face and other comparable "immoralities." People who busy themselves about such things don't belong in the enlightened Twentieth Century.

THE COST OF ROAD BUILDING

THE estimate submitted as to the cost of improving the six miles of Gallia pike from Franklin Furnace to the Lawrence county line furnishes a striking illustration of the irregular relations various materials bear towards each other on the price basis.

It seems to be generally assumed that the improvement will be of brick. If such be the case there is, of course, going to be criticism and condemnation because "brick is so much higher than macadam."

Right here it is that a comparison of figures on the cost of materials justifies the opening observation. Brick or concrete, compared with macadam is cheap, we might almost say dirt cheap. Adding the two estimates, the contract is to be let in two divisions, it is found, throwing aside the hundreds, that brick laying will cost $234,000; concrete $215,000, macadam $195,000.

We see that the difference between the highest cost and the lowest is $49,000, or a difference of around six thousand dollars per mile. That is a showing altogether in favor of brick when the matter of durability, which is the highest quality in a good road, is taken into consideration. If one doubts that let him drive from Sciotoville to Ironton, and draw his own conclusion from actual observation. The brick road through Sciotoville was laid 12 years ago. The macadam road from the Lawrence county line to Hanging Rock, about twelve months. The latter section already shows twelve times more wear than the first. Another twelve months and it will have to be relaid.

We have about given up the idea that any such thing as a permanent road can be constructed under present conditions. There is no wavering, however, in the conviction that good roads are not only a necessity, but that they pay. They are more of a necessity now and they pay bigger returns because the wear and tear of bad roads are more extensive than they ever were. So we believe we have got to travel back to the permanent road by another route. The weight of the machines and vehicles that travel has got to be limited and that to a sharp degree. There is no work of man that can stand up under a twelve ton truck, carrying twelve tons and going at 20 miles an hour.

A MENACING VARIANCE

IT cost Gifford Pinchot and his wife somewhere around $150,000 for him to secure the Republican nomination for governor of Pennsylvania.

His apologists claim this huge sum was absolutely necessary for legitimate campaign expenses. Their man was confronted by the solid party machine. He had to organize against it, which means building up a personal machine in opposition.

But was it?

Alfred J. Beveridge was nominated for senator in Indiana. To do that he had to beat the Republican state machine too. Yes, he had to do more, for his opponent, Harry New was the personal and political friend of Warren G. Harding, president, standing closer to him than any man at Washington, with the possible exception of Harry Daugherty. Yet Beveridge and his campaign committee spent only $10,000, one dollar for every 15 laid out by the Pinchots.

No one can intelligently claim that Indiana is not just as thoroughly dominated by machine politics as is Pennsylvania. Pinchot and his friends need another alibi.

That man Hoover must be somewhat different. Visiting Youngstown, to speak at a banquet, he had a few hours leisure time on his hands. Invited to consume it in playing golf, he said he preferred to visit the steel plants and so he did.

We can judge how bad an affair the new tariff bill is by the fact that the Republican senators are riddling it all to pieces with amendments.

Seventeen candidates for a job that pays $1,200 a year and involves about twelve hundred thousand hand shakes. What do you think of that?

THE BIBLE IN PICTURES AND TEXT

By HELEN E. OHRENSCHALL

UPON MOUNT HOR

THE children of Israel had come into the desert of Zin and abode in Kadesh where Miriam died. The people complained because there was no water. God told Moses to speak unto a rock and it would give forth water. Moses smote it with his rod and water came out abundantly, then the people and their beasts drank.

Again they journeyed and came to mount Hor. God commanded Moses to bring Aaron and his son Eleazar up into the mount and to put Aaron's garments upon Eleazar. There Aaron died and Eleazar was made high priest.

New York-Day-By-Day

BY O. O. MCINTYRE

NEW YORK, June 12.—A page from the diary of a modern Hamlet, Pepers: Up and heard my wife play on the piano and set to do a little labour. Then to Poplin's for breakfast in a gay little court-yard and saw Sir John Drew, the play actor, there and also Don Passos, the author.

To my barber to be trimmed and fell to talk with a man I know to be the sharpest gambler in the city and a fellow of high culture, talking of literature and other arts and in especial of Rosetti's "The Blessed Damsel." And he invited me to see his first editions, which I intend to do.

Home, where came Dr. George Dorsey, the curator, back from Portugal, and Herb Joth, the immer, who is soon to end all wondrous merriness. And serious talk, too, of Mr. Herzog's and his "Cythera," which I deem a well written volume.

In the late evening packed my bags, washed the dog and entrained for Atlantic City and lighting there walked two hours along the sea-side and rode in a wheel chair while all the city slept. And so to bed.

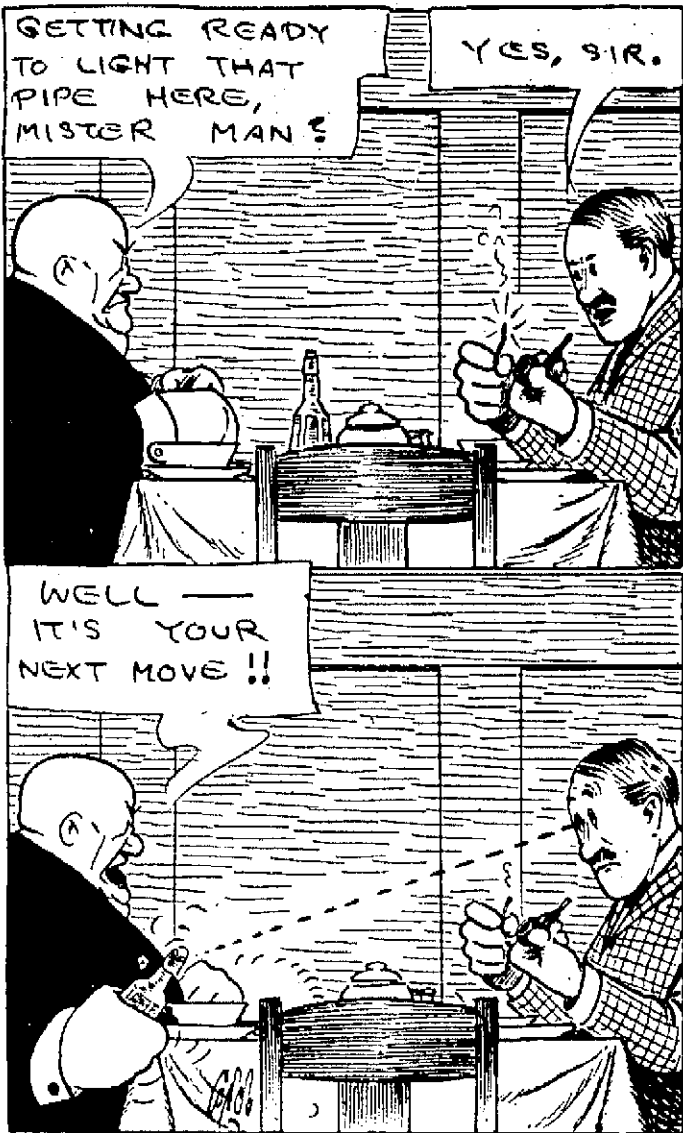

Gazing at the sapphire sea one is filled with strange longings. The primitive surges for expression. For instance, I fancied myself going around the Horn on a windjammer, the wind whipping furiously. I heard hulking men with hair on their chest booming their ribald songs and was brought back to reality by the roller chair colliding with a lap dog swathed in pink ribbon.

It was at Atlantic City I heard with a twinge of regret of the news that William McFee, whose "Casualties of the Sea" is a classic, has been sentenced to spend the rest of his life on the Arizona desert. He must seek health in the open air of the dry lands and one can imagine his longings for the endless blue sweep of the sea and the tang of salt breezes.

He has served the sea since he became a runaway at the age of thirteen. It was his life. Yet one of his vision and understanding may through the trick of fate fashion his greatest epic in expressing the vain longings of his soul.

standards. The other evening he was in a cafe with a beautiful young girl. He glanced up from his menu card and saw the lady's husband standing at his side. Without the slightest show of alarm he said to the waiter: "Pistols for two!" And it is recorded the husband left without even making a scene.

Along Automobile Row the accessory shops are displaying a serving table which has one leg standing on the running board and when not in use can be folded up and slipped under a seat. It is intended for hasty wayside refreshments. It is noticeable, too, that Japanese are invading the field of chauffeuring in New York. It is considered quite smart to have a Jap chauffeur and many of the horse-drawn four-wheelers have Japanese drivers. But somehow or other they don't look well in a plum-coloured high hat.

A couple of devotees of flapperage were discussing the performance of "The Hairy Ape."

"Did you see it, dearie?" said one.

"To the last hair," replied the other.

Her Turn Now
 Smith married. The evening of his first pay-day he gave his bride $30 of his salary and kept only a dollar for himself.

But the second pay-day he gave his wife one dollar and kept $39 for himself.

"Why, John," she cried, in injured tones, "How on earth do you think I can manage for a whole week on a paltry dollar?"

"Darned if I know. I had a rotten time myself last week. It's your turn now."—Ex.

Instead, you try to find admirable traits and bring them out.
